LEADERSHIP CONFERENCE

tions, the National Education Association, the Negroes' Lawyers Guild, the Negro Elks, the League of Women Voters, and newspapers. The blind popular passion for civil rights has been captured and perverted in the interests of the Jews.

This coalition of "liberal-illiberal forces" masquerading as a civil rights movement, has succeeded in decapitating the very powerful and well known Negro feeling of anti-semitism; and has driven the anti-semitic Negro leaders underground. No one dares run for public office except Governor Maddox, against the will of the Jewish controlled civil rights movement. Under Jewish leadership millions have been poured into the civil rights movement. But significantly, although Jews have been able to buy some leaders, the black masses have been very little moved. However the Jews have been effective in their political game of keeping the blacks and the whites too suspicious and too hostile to each other for either to make trouble for the Jews. It was not until Stokely Carmichael raised his fist against James Meredith on the dusty highway in Mississippi in 1966 and declared that the Negroes were being fooled, and being overcome by the "technological-industrial complex" that the Negroes for the first time broke free of the Jewish leadership. This was the first defeat that Jewish policy has ever had in the U.S.; but their last one has not yet come. From that day on there has continued a progressive pulling away of Negroes from Jewish-contrived civil rights coalitions.

It is now practically an open secret that the Leadership Conference on Civil Rights is acting in the name of the blacks but without their support. It may be wondered how long the Jews can hold the organization together enough to intimidate anyone.

The peak of the Leadership Conference's success may have been reached in the summer of 1963 with the historic March on Washington which brought together all political forces of all stripes to the left of Lester Maddox and George Wallace (Church, professional, Negro, White, etc.) in a display billed as intended to guarantee Civil Rights to Negroes. The Negro Big Six (NAACP, Urban League, Southern Christian Leadership Conference, National Council of Negro Women, Congress of Racial Equality and SNCC with the tacit support of the A. Philip Randolph Institute) became the beneficiary in the proceeds of some million and a half raised under the quiet auspices of the Leadership Conference, which was distributed by the Taconic Foundation led by the late Stephen Currier of Jewish family connections. However the coalition which came so close to handing the U.S. over to the Jews in the name of Negroes, began to have difficulty when the spokesman for SNCC (i.e. the Carmichael group), asked to address the March on Washington, but found his speech cut to accommodate the purposes of the Zionists. This dissatisfied those Negroes more interested in Negritude than in Zionism, who, consequently, went on to establish a Black Power movement outside the Leadership Conference. Thus passed into history one of the most dangerous attempts to pervert the Negro movement yet seen.

Jewish Cold War In the United States

By STANDISH HALL

Two events have recently occurred which cannot fail to have considerable influence on the affairs of the U.S. Both of them are liable to harm the power exerted in our country by the Jews of Tel-Aviv. One is a court case coming to trial in Washington, D.C. According to Lawrence Mosher, who reports on it in the "National Observer", it promises to cast light on the pervasive but obscure activities in the U.S. of the worldwide Zionist movement. The second is the attack made by the Jewish Defense League against Arab diplomats stationed in New York, in which several Arabs were injured.

These two events are evidence that the Jews in Israel, acting here through B'nai B'rith, are well organized and possess both an intelligence service and shock troops. In his article in the "Observer" of May 18, 1970, "Zionist Role in the U.S. Raises New Concern," Mosher says, "With the festering Middle East war in the background, the Zionist activity is creating special concern in the Jewish community and in U.S. Government circles." What Mosher means is the well organized programme of B'nai B'rith to collect funds, disseminate propaganda, and carry on political activity in Israel's interests.

According to Mosher, "Solid information about the inner workings of the Zionist movement is hard to come by." On that account a suit brought by Saul E. Joffes against B'nai B'rith, of which he was formerly a high official, may cast some very interesting light on a powerful and not always beneficial force in our country. Joffes has been for twenty-two years in the service of B'nai B'rith as secretary general of its International Council. He was fired for protesting against the conflict of interests and activities between the Israeli Foreign Office, acting among the Diaspora Jews, and the activity of the B'nai B'rith among the same Jews. Mr. Joffes complains of the Zionist take-over of B'nai B'rith's international operations. He says that, "Over at the Israeli Embassy they are not pleased with your development of B'nai B'rith because it will probably interfere with what they are trying to do."

Since Mr. Joffes was ousted for his protest against the organization's collaboration with Israel, he is suing the B'nai B'rith with the hope that Zionist and Israeli interests and their control over Jewish citizens in the U.S. may be explored and legally defined by the Court of the District of Columbia, and later, if necessary, by the Supreme Court. This is all the more important because the Jews have been enjoying dual citizenship here and in Israel ever since the Bey Afroyim case in 1967. While this attempt to set legal limits to Zionist activity in the U.S. is being carried on, the people of the country are being afforded a rare but all the more interesting view of the clandestine operations of Zionists in American politics, Church affairs and in the economy. The power and influence which the Zionists wield is expected to be shown to be very great.

Moreover the case will throw light on the Jewish methods of fund raising which milks our economy in general, and distributes the burden over all the population whether Jewish or not. It will, one can hope, show how the U.S. is made to pay for Israeli government expenses, and for Israeli expansion into non-Arab Africa. It will surely expose Zionist and Israeli lobbying on Capitol Hill, and their means of intimidating legislators who refuse to cooperate. It will expose the Jewish violations of the Treaty of Commerce and Navigation between the U.S. and Israel. Perhaps it will do something to resolve the dilemma of dual citizenship of Jews who are often commanded by the Zionists in the interest of their Israeli citizenship to injure their interests as American citizens.

Mosher says that, "the world Zionist movement is big business;" and quotes a Zionist money raiser who says, "when the blood flows the money flows." In two years following the 1967 war the Zionists raised $730,000,000. Since 1948 four billion dollars have been sent from the U.S. to Israel, not counting official contributions of our government; and the Zionists have set a quota of half a billion for this year. These funds are tax deductible, although that is a clear violation of the law governing such funds. Also the case threatens to bring out into the open the conflict between Israeli and American foreign policy.

The policy of making enemies with all the Moslems from the Philippines and Central Asia to Dakar and Timbuctoo in order to please the Jews who can barely maintain themselves in Palestine is hard to understand. Furthermore, it is not only the Arabs who are offended by this policy. Black Africa also, discovering that U.S. officials act in Israeli interests, have turned against us. They hold us responsible for the demoralizing and degrading activities of the Peace Corps whose policies they think originate in Tel Aviv, and whose personnel is 40% Jewish.

Furthermore they resent the meddling of our intelligence agents in the Biafran War.

Although there is quite an opposition to Zionism among American Jews, few believe that it can prevail. The force and position of the Zionists in America are too much. For example the Zionists boast that theirs is the best intelligence service in the world. They have written books and distributed articles on it (which they call Shin Bet) and they boast about its punitive actions behind the lines in other peoples' countries. They do not boggle, for instance, at kidnapping, as appears from the Eichmann case, and as recounted in "True" magazine in the summer of 1968.

The Joffes case will undoubtedly damage and weaken the Jews in America, and contribute materially to freeing us from their grip. When the time comes for them to pack their bags and depart, as they have from every other nation where they have settled, it will be partly due to Joffes.

10. In order to put public opinion into our hands we must bring it into a state of bewilderment by giving expression from all sides to so many contradictory opinions and for such length of time as will suffice to make the Goyim lose their heads in the labyrinth and come to see that the best thing is to have no opinion of any kind in matters political, which it is not given to the public to understand, because they are understood only by him who guides the public.
